Has anyone reviewed their IT/Web usage policy in light of social media and other newer ways of spreading their message?

Has anyone reviewed their IT/Web usage policy in light of social media and other newer ways of spreading their message?

As an organisation we use social media to spread our message and often Skype for contacting one another. I just wonder if anyone has advice or guidelines around the use of these service by staff in the organisation. Should disclaimers be used? Should there be an 'etiquette' guide? Any advice would be greatly appreciated!

Thanks, Jess
